Average Trip Duration by Birth Year

The system data showed that most of the riders were annual subscriber since they have paid the whole year usages. It's obvious that male riders were way more than female riders and their ages were around 40-50 years old. It can be explained that women have different travel behavior than men because they concert about safety, comfort and accessibility. And the reason why middle age men like cycling more than women because cycling will not take away energy so quickly as the sports they grew up playing.
